BEVERLY HIGH SCHOOL

BEVERLY, MASSACHUSETTS

Class Adviser

RICHARD A. PRESTON

We the Class of 1950

RICHARD PRESTON

We shall never forget our friendly, hard-working Skipper, Mr. Preston, who, with characteristic good humor, willingly shouldered any problems with which we burdened him throughout our three years at B. H. S. Through calm and rough seas he has held our course steady and has brought our ship safely to port . . . many, many thanks to you, "Skipper," for our successful voyage.

WILLARD H. SMITH
Principal

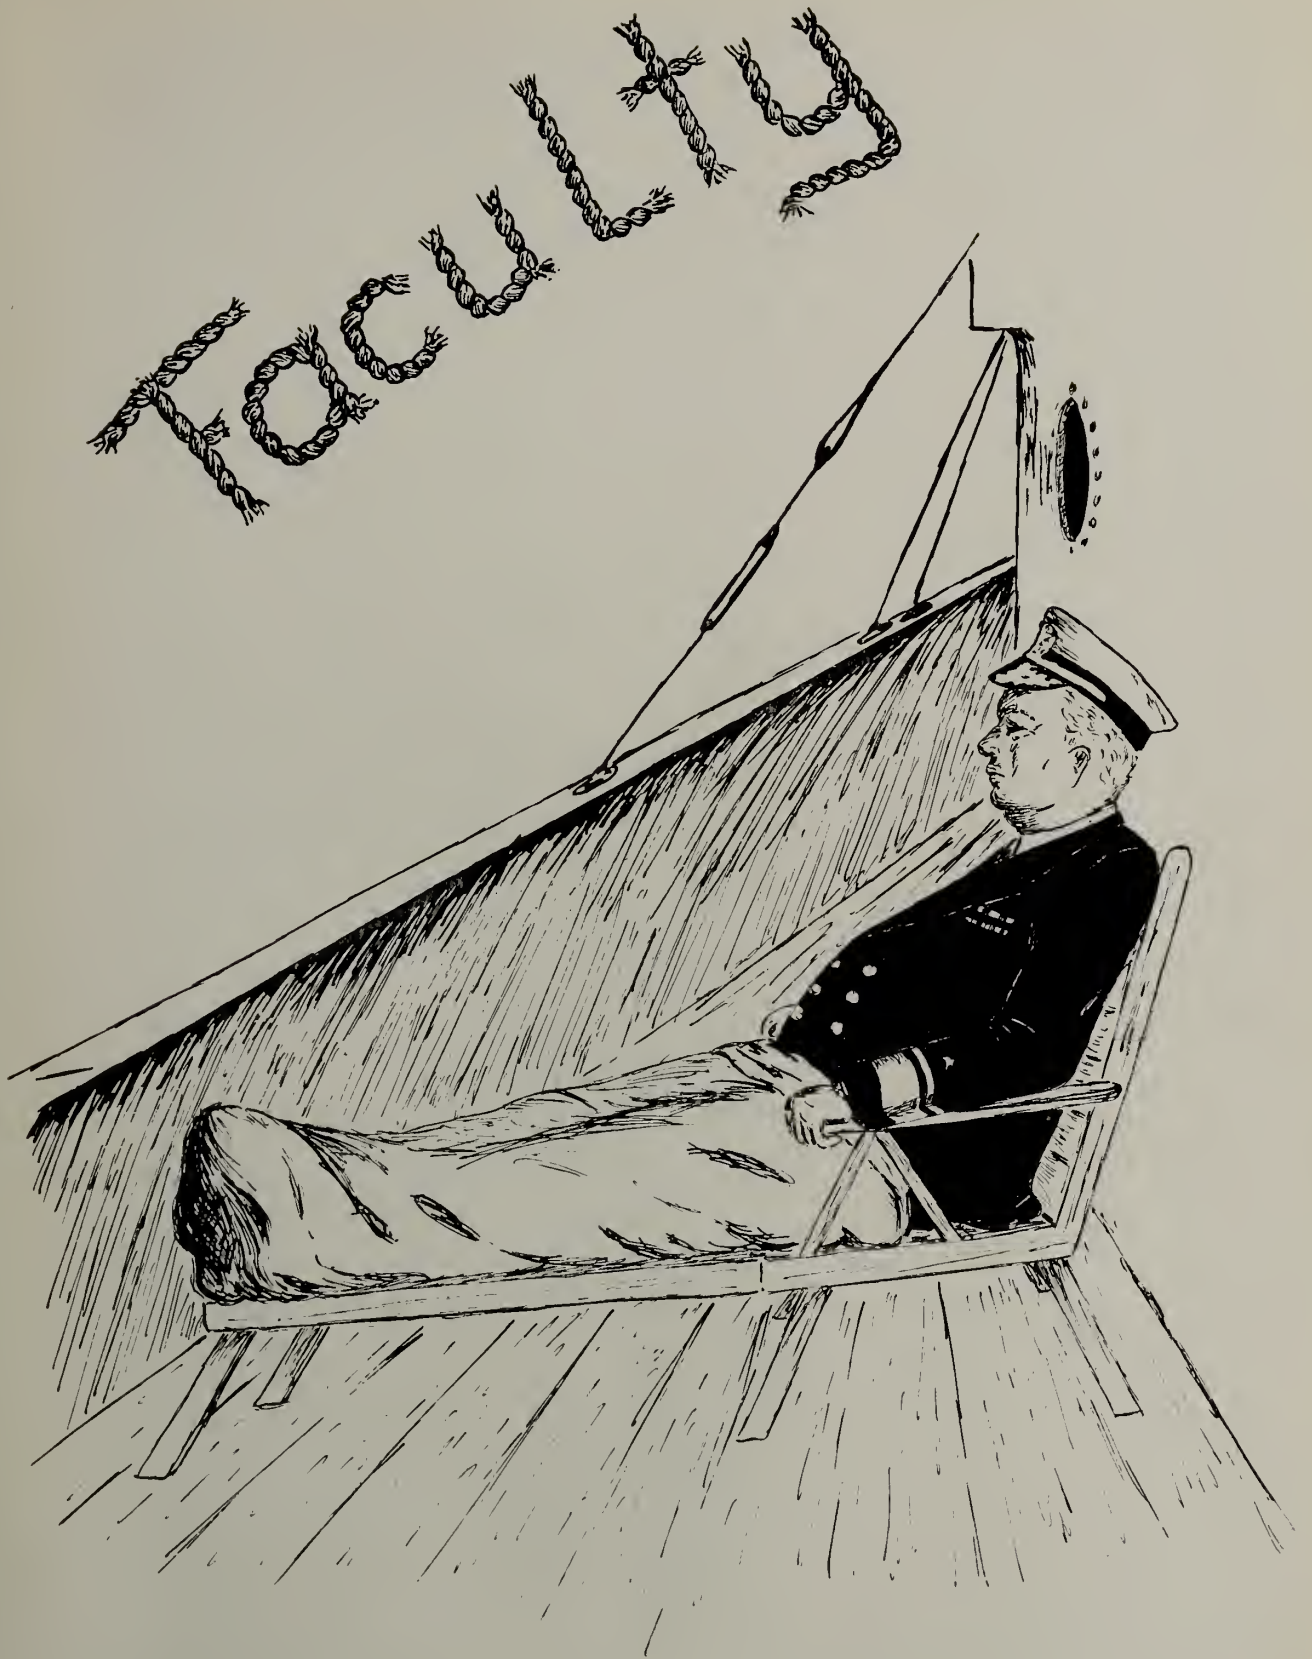

To the Members of the Class of 1950:

Whatever your present thoughts and emotions may be on the eve of your high school graduation, I would urge you throughout life to keep in mind and strive to meet great challenges which can help you make the most of your lives. What are some of these great challenges? I am thinking especially of the following:

1. The challenge of character. Beverly and every other community need men and women of great integrity and of high moral and ethical character, men and women who are honest with themselves and others and who are clean in thought, word, and deed. Working together actively with other like-minded men and women in the church or synagogue of one's choice can be an effective way of meeting this challenge.
2. The challenge of citizenship. The good citizen is the man who has a useful job best suited to his own abilities and interests and who uses his income wisely for himself and his family. The good citizen takes as active a part as possible in promoting good government on the local, state, national and, international levels.
3. The challenge of service. Loved and respected is the man or woman who with no thought of financial gain says the kind word or does the good deed to help relative, friend, or neighbor or to advance the good work being done by the church, civic, or fraternal organization of which he is a member. Giving of oneself in service to others is one of the noblest activities a man may pursue in life.
4. The challenge of tolerance. The tolerant man is one who respects his fellow man notwithstanding his class, color, or creed and who has as his great ideal the brotherhood of all men.

My best wishes go with you as you face these and other great challenges in life.

Will and Testament

We, the graduating class of Nineteen Hundred and Fifty, being of sound body and mind(?), do hereby attest that this is our last will and testament, and with greatest sympathy do leave these great treasures.

- ARTICLE I. To Miss Gay we leave only the memory and a sigh of relief for that empty table in the library, first and third periods, where Marcia Whitaker entertained all with her eyebrow-raising accounts of her "lost" weekends.
- ARTICLE II. To Mr. Page we leave a new edition of "Gags Inc.," to replace his 1935 copy.
- ARTICLE III. To next year's Talent Show "M. C.," we bequeath George Accomando's repertoire of jokes to ensure success between the acts.
- ARTICLE IV. To Mr. Kishon's future PHYSICS classes we leave another "mule train" to help pull the load.
- ARTICLE V. The class of 1950 leaves to the incoming Sophomores all their "beat-up," "bent-in," and "battered-down" lockers.
- ARTICLE VI. To Miss Hett we bequeath some more students who have never heard of what she has taught them.
- ARTICLE VII. To study hall students we leave a television set for spare moments.
- ARTICLE VIII. To the Librarian we leave three dictaphone sets so that she may hear the latest news from the Conference rooms.
- ARTICLE IX. To the senior history classes we leave a bottle of "historacid" to be used only on Thursday nights. (When poured into an ear, guaranteed to give astounding historical knowledge.)
- ARTICLE X. To Miss Ryan we leave a wig, so that she will not have to pull out any more of her flaming locks during next year's oral interpretation classes.
- ARTICLE XI. To all Sophomore shorties we leave John McKenna's height.
- ARTICLE XII. To Miss Gay we leave a geiger-counter to contact all those missing books.
- ARTICLE XIII. The enlightened graduates of "Papa" Preston's chemistry classes leave to him a year's supply of Life Savers, Chips, and cigarettes.
- ARTICLE XIV. To the guidance office we leave a Sears Roebuck Catalogue for those who are only "shopping around."
- ARTICLE XV. To Mr. Carroll we leave the laughs and fun we have had with him at B. H. S.
- ARTICLE XVI. Last but not least, we leave our Alma Mater . . . take care of her, keep her worthy tradition alive, and above all, appreciate her.

In witness whereof, we have hereunto subscribed our names and seal, and do hereby state this legal and proper on this Sixteenth day of June, in the year of our Lord, Nineteen Hundred and Fifty.

Class Prophecy

There we were on the Good Ship B.H.S. As they lifted the gangplank, Mr. Smith and some of the faculty hurried aboard. My have they changed! We never thought that they'd be at our reunion. Poor Mr. Preston looked so seasick.

Then we started our search for the rest of the class of "fifty." The years have been good to our classmates and they are all just as handsome as they were ten years ago.

There was Admiral William Ambrose giving orders to Bill Neve, Ronnie and Bill Kirby, Lawrence Shaw, Bob Marshall, Frannie Courchene, Elmer Dawson, John Dunham, Ronald Hall, and Bill Flynn, members of his frightened crew. Smugly watching the proceedings was Commander Richard Currier of the Naval Research Headquarters. He told us that the builder of this ship was the illustrious John Paddol and the navigator, none other than Alden Norman.

Feeling hungry, we went down to the galley to see what was cookin'. There was Frances Murray with a chef's hat on talking to the dietitians Peggy McGloin and Anne Hutchinson, and the new owner of "Club 21," Pete Moliviatis. As we went topside, we bumped into Robert Lewis, the new manager of the Hood's plant in Salem.

We were rescued from falling by George Accomando and his lovely wife, the former Tillie Clarke. We were sure that the class president could tell us what some of the other kids were doing, and that he did. He was to be the M.C. for our show that night since he had taken Milton Berle's place as the "Television King." He told us that the playboy Bill Ransom had brought his famous chorus line with him. In it were some of our old school chums: Jean Godbout, Mary Lee, Nasha Pappas, Jackie Morse, and Jane Fitzgerald. We wondered how his wife, the former Mary Lane, liked that.

We were also lucky in having Larry Cippolone and his orchestra with us. Ronnie Bovio, the colossal drummer man, is still with the band, along with Melvin Eklund, Bernie Cristoforo, and Lincoln Stuart. Mickey Abate, the crooning quarter-back, sang. He has become quite the swoon king! The famous disc jockey and accordion player, Lou Datillo, was part of the great show along with his assistant, Art Edwards. George told us that Judy Bell would not be with us because of her concert at Carnegie Hall, and that Robert Atwood is away with a big name band.

We heard quite a commotion and some of our better known athletes came on deck. Don Mitchell is now the star of the Boston Bruins, and Al Berman pitches (?) for the Washington Senators. Don Campbell is now the coach of the Celtics since he is not yet tall enough to play for them. John Spiridigliozzi has not been so fortunate as he is still the coach of the Beverly Farms team.

While these boys are working hard playing, Bob Entwistle, the peppy sports writer works for Fred Clapp, the editor of the New York Times. Also making money in the sports line are Vic Menesale, football coach at Notre Dame; Jim Pettipas, basketball coach at B. U.; Bill Hedin, swimming coach at the University of Miami; Charlie Kessariss, baseball coach at U.C.L.A.; and the famous stock car driver, Bob Fielding.

On the deck, we ran into some of the married couples spooning. Jean Stapledon has become the wife of Dick Price and has four little "Price-tags." Also there were the former Betty Smith, now Mrs. Phil Dodge; Janice Worrall, now Mrs. John Truesdale; Nancy Guething, now Mrs. Art Landers; Mrs. Bob Haskell (Eleanor Graham); Jackie White, now Mrs. Richard Field; Ruth Watson, now Mrs. Walter Hayes; and Joan Woodbury, now Mrs. Pete Liberti. Among the others that are now enjoying wedded bliss are Pat Goodrow, Pauline Grondin, Lois Draper, Jackie Fissette, Cynthia Low, Lorraine Allen, Almira Petrosino, and Catherine Buckley. Some of the boys that bypassed the happy event are Paul Weir, (we didn't know how he could break so many hearts), Arthur Manos, Bob Terrio, Dwight Campbell, and Dick Norris.

After breaking away from the happily-married couples and the equally happy bachelors, George told us about the intelligentsia of our class. Some of those trying to educate (?) young America are: Betty Coult, professor at Mount Holyoke; George Downing, mathematics prof at a girls' college; Dorothy Harding, teacher at Salem High; Richard LeBel, physics prof at Smith; Jeannine Lundin, also a physics teacher; Tom Grady, James MacAllister and John Boyle, history profs at B. U.; Virginia Scanzani, a teacher at the Country Day School; Richard St. Pierre, un professeur de francais; and Connie Leonard and Bunny Misner, physical ed teachers at B.H.S. and Briscoe respectively. But we have to hand it to John Batchelder, head math prof at M.I.T. In another line of teaching, we have: Pauline Beaulieu, a kindergarten director; Carolyn Gould, a piano teacher; and Marcia Whitaker, a ski and tennis instructor.

Some of our scientists are: Ruth Cohen, dental assistant; Janice Chute and Doris Bernson, laboratory technicians; Jean Brierley, an occupational therapist; Harold Cogan, a research scientist; Mort Galper, a rich man from his experimental work; Peter Tappan, a chemist; Arthur Hathaway, an inventor; Harold Green and Donald White, directors of the Green-White Clinic; and none other than Joe Pasquerelli, who has become a second Einstein.

The class of fifty, clever as it is, has people who have become their own bosses: Rudy Carnevale, owner of the Sky-View Taxi Company in New York; Fred Choate, president of the Shawmut Bank; Frank Chamberlain, proprietor of the Clipper Restaurant; Sam Davekos, president of Chrysler Products; Charlie Corse, owner of Handy-Dandy Kitchen Tools; Norman Eaton, owner of Eaton Jewelers; Marilyn D'Amour, head of an advertising agency; Pat Ganey, head of Ropes Drugstores; Quincy Kennard, owner of a women's apparel shop; Doris Harwood, an interior decorator; Victor Willis, president of Willis Trucking Co.; Edna Hudon and Lillian Solaris, artists for Colliers; Marilyn Woods, artist for the Saturday Evening Post; Connie Hopkins, owner of Hopkins Studios; Joseph Healey, head manager for Paramount Parking Lots; Sonja Hansen and her assistants, Virginia Bianchi and Joanne Wilson, creator of Sonja Styles; Robert MacKenzie, president of Nighty-Nite Face Cream Co.; Mary Quaranta and Phyllis Lauranzano, buyers for Almy's; Caryl Larcom, buyer for Jordan Marsh; Lucy Ambrose, manager of N. E. Tel. & Tel. in Salem; Pio Angelini, a gentleman farmer; Janice Morgan and Gert Veilleux, co-managers of Woolworths; our attractive Joan Nelson, the head of l'Academie Moderne; Helen Notargiacomo, creator of Helene Dresses; the famous "Chicken" Montoni, president of world-wide Montoni Masons; John "Digger" McKenna, owner of a comforting funeral parlor; Ronald Perkins, playboy-at-large; Derna Pieroni, merchandise buyer for Tiffany's Fifth Avenue; Alan Ploss, city electrician; Frank Robinson, owner of the swankiest clam joints in Florida; Phebe Swaine, a rich country gentlewoman; Ray St. Pierre, a playboy bachelor still breaking the girls' hearts; John Stewart, head of Stewart Airlines; John Slattery, owner of a chain of stores; Richie Gobeille, Ralph Lansol, and Joe Ruest, all competent carpenters; Richard Forman, Armand Jutras, and Dave Miller, assistants in the carpentry line; Emerson Getchell and Glenn Scanlon, competitors in the garage business; Richard Ramos and Raymond Tarr, co-owners of a print shop; Richard Adams, manager of an outdoor theater (probably because he likes the fresh air); Bob Page, proprietor of a cafeteria; Jean Gagnon, new owner of Schraffts; Al Mazetta, Frank Nelson, Roland MacCormack, Hal Johnson, Don MacDougall, Robert Lyons, and Anthony Addonizio, all mechanics (first class).

It was quite late when we finished our talk with George about our well-to-do former classmates, so we decided it was time to get some refreshments. Entering the dining hall we saw some of our old friends discussing medical feats. We found them to be: Dr. Dennis, with his secretary, Marcia Crosby; nurse, Gloria De Pasquale; and receptionist, Betty Watson. The girls in white are: Norma Dame, Frannie Adams, Joanne Arsenault, Helen Ahearn, Jackie Maxner, and Nancy Rainville. We see that Natalie Russell and Patricia Leavitt work along the same line only with the younger set. Peggy Low, R.N., B.S., and P.D.Q., is now superintendent of nurses at Massachusetts Memorial Hospital.

The food was really good and we didn't forget to compliment the chef. While we were walking down the deck, we overheard some words about bosses. Who else has words about bosses but their secretaries? So we found in this merry group: Bernice Denis, Frances Coppola, Barbara Danforth, Shirley Dion, Gerry Doucette, Lois Howard, Carol Johnson, Peggy Kelly, Janice Manning, Roslyn MacCarthy, June Anderson, Barbara McKeon, Alice Robinson, Gladys Steiner, Jeanette Surles, Lois Cohen, Joan Gurley, Betty Gilbert, Sylvia Gentile, Carol Tracy, Sylvia Tsoutsanis, Rosa Lee Wineberg, Jeanne Proulx, Shirley Gangloff, and Norma Clay. Some of our other friends that work in the offices are: Rosemary Vandi, Albert Cloyd, Joyce Cole, and Mary Hull, bookkeepers and Marilyn Thayer, filing clerk. The typists are: Judy Goodwin, June Burge, Leona Mallardi, and Mary Mascioli.

Leaving our gay (?) office people, we ran into none other than Ben Bowden, your friendly Ford dealer. He was talking with Mary Conti, the secretary to (get this) J. D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Unnie Dwyer, the famous Power's Model and Miss America of 1952.

The absentee list was quite long, but we found out where every one was. Connie Bennett has just married a millionaire and is spending her honeymoon abroad; Dolores DePiero is in Paris living a Bohemian life; Dick Collupy is a forest ranger in Canada; June DiGenova is in the A.A.F.; Fred Martin is in the Marines; Helen Ellis is on another trip to Europe (she sure gets around); Ann Gouzie is in Egypt looking for the lost pyramid; Pauline Whitman is on her ranch in Arizona; John Farrell and Norman Robichau are in Washington telling the Republican president what to do; Donald Joslin is the Ambassador to France; Mert Kaplan is working very hard in Florida as a bathing beauty judge; Joe Harlow is busy as butler to one of the world's richest men; Charlie Hiltunen is in Timbuck Too as a construction engineer; Barbara Jenness is in Europe as a governess; Elizabeth Maloof and Martha Simms are doing religious work; Beverly Orne is at home watching over her husband, a temperamental dress designer; Josephine Paolini is in South America on another trip as stewardess for TWA.

Some of our friends have become engineers. They are: Earl Johnson and Fred Burns, civil engineers; Robert Grout, an industrial engineer; and Vincent Terry, an aeronautical engineer.

As we continued on our way, we saw Diane Sterman, the taxi heiress who has broken a million hearts, talking to Paulina Carlson, our C.P.A., and the two boys from G.E., Alan White and Frank Williams, draftsmen.

Of course we had to send some of our boys to the Shoe. It wouldn't be fair if we didn't. They are: Walter Howard, in the office; William Barter, Henry Pinciario, and Bob Kent, sheetmetal workers; and Gordon Morse and Richard Silva, patternmakers.

Moving along we saw some of our female members of the fleet including: Dorothy Greene, Pauline Haibon, and Helen Hajdys, all Waves. By then it was fairly late, but some of our theatrical people were just coming on board from their evening performances on Broadway. We find that they are: Janet Lawler, whose latest role is "Lady Macbeth" opposite Paul Lester; Helen Noyes, whose latest role is opposite Bill Stone in "Who Kicked The Bucket?" a mystery thriller by Irma Russell. The stage manager for this great presentation is Carl Foster assisted by Bob Drinkwater; the wardrobe mistresses are June Skoglund and Lucille Sciola. The beautiful costumes were designed by Carole Cauty; the business manager is that clever John Rowell and the sitting-down supervisor of all work is Brother Poor. The play is being presented at the new theater, "The Pestilence," owned by Ed Morin. Joanne Morse is the ticket seller and William Smith the head usher. Selling candy in the luxurious lobby are Norma Shepard and Elizabeth Stanton. The most important person in the show is the backer, the wealthy engineer, Tom Rapisarda. We musn't forget the hard working stage crew and carpenters that keep the beautiful sets designed by Barbara Chick Donnelly in good order. They are: Charles Boucher, Gail Barton, Robert Brown, Roland Moody, Vincent Freeman, Henry Gauthier, and Dick Drown. Every night after the show Floyd Swanson, accountant deluxe, counts the money while Austin Cole stands by with his gun.

At the end of the evening, the Good Ship B.H.S. pulled into her dock to be put in mothballs until the Class of '50 meets again. We heard a commotion on the gang-plank. There they were, the two classmates from whom we had not heard—Tom Donovan, the youngest retired millionaire in the world, and Charlie Tenenbaum, the sophisticated, intellectual hobo. Our cruise was over and everyone accounted for. It was fun. We're wondering now what we'll have to report in 1970.

Junior Class History

September 8, 1948, will be forever a memorable day for the Class of 1951, because it was the first day of high school. After we mastered the lockers, the corridors, and the stairways, we felt ourselves a really important part of B.H.S.

Soon, Mr. Belmore, Miss Carraher, and Miss Brown were appointed our class advisers. Helped tremendously by these teachers, we Sophomores got our first election underway. Richard Carr was elected president of the class; Robert Hayes, vice president; Robert McLeod, secretary; and Fred Bucci, treasurer. It was certainly a man's year!

Quite a battle arose during the election for Student Council members. Because of the narrow margin of votes, we had to have a recount and another election. Finally, Mary Him, Fred Bucci, Richard Carr, Robert Hayes, James White, and Annette Fortunato were elected.

On Drama Night, Muriel McLean, Jane Povah, Donald Kenney, Jean Barry, Bruce Wilkinson, and Dean Zeilon starred in Charity Ball, the first play presented by the Sophomore class. Muriel McLean won the award as best actress.

The football season of 1948 will undoubtedly go down in history, for B.H.S. had an undefeated season. The lucky boys, Fred Bucci, Richard Carr, Bob Hayes, Joe Maglio, Lore Frost, Joe Ambrefe, Nate Winer, and Wayne Raymond enjoyed the trip to Florida given to the football players.

Gloria Wright, Helen Grant, Mary Him, Cynthia Cushing, and Annette Fortunato were chosen cheerleaders for the 1949-1950 season.

Our second September found us somewhat less bewildered, and we were all ready to start another successful year.

The guiding lights of our junior year were the same as those of the previous year except for Annette Fortunato, who was elected secretary.

Perhaps the highlight of our Junior year was the winning of the "Drama Night Award" for the play Becky Sharp. Jean Barry, Richard Hazell, Eleanor Hawthorne, Kenneth Kulberg, and Jack Rothbard, who received the honor of having been the most outstanding actor, gave their time and effort towards this play.

The "Hockey Hop," sponsored by the Juniors, proved novel and profitable. Awards were given to the outstanding players of the Danvers and Beverly teams.

Special mention should be given to Carol Wade for her poem, "My Friend," which was published in The National Anthology of High School Poetry.

We Juniors are looking forward to another enjoyable and educational (we hope) year when we shall be the all-important Seniors!

On September 7, 1949, the class of 1952, lowly Sophomores, entered Beverly High. The first month here was rather discouraging. To the amusement of Juniors and Seniors, our lockers refused to open and we were continually getting lost. Soon, however, we found ourselves.

One of the first important events to take place was the election of class officers. These honors were given to Richard Cunningham, president; James McPherson, vice president; Martha Kenney, secretary; and Charles Scobey, treasurer.

The play we presented at Drama Night, "Bird on the Wing," was a great success. Nancy Thomas, the leading lady, was chosen the most outstanding actress. For the Thanksgiving assembly the Sophomore Dramatic Club contributed a play called "Don't Call Me Junior," which everyone enjoyed very much.

The Sophomore class has been represented in many sports here at Beverly High. We have taken part in hockey, basketball, track and football not only as players but as loyal spectators.

Next year as Juniors we hope to play an even more important role in school affairs. As upper classmen we shall try to distinguish ourselves at Beverly High.

In the divisional meet of the Middlesex League at Haverhill, B. H. S. avenged its earlier defeat by Arlington by beating them out for second place in a field of six teams. Watertown on the other hand was still ahead of Beverly and turned the trick again a week later in the league meet at Tufts.

Beverly walked off with the championship of Class B in the state meet while Watertown, as expected, won the Class A crown. Then, climaxing the season, came the New England meet which included fourteen complete schools and many individual runners. The Orange and Black's tie for sixth place was an excellent showing and gave them some measure of revenge on Watertown which finished twelfth.
